Objective of the Program: To expose students to different lifestyles, places and to reinforce experiential and contextual learning. In biological sciences in particular, field-based education is essential since it provides the core training for fields like ecology, evolution, systematics, behavior and conservation science.

Under the course: DSC-I: Animal Behavior & Chronobiology

Date: 16.11.2021

Organized by: Department of Zoology

Visited by: B. Sc. 5th semester students and teacher in-charge

Number of participants: 28

Nature of Activity: Extension and Outreach

Brief report of the program

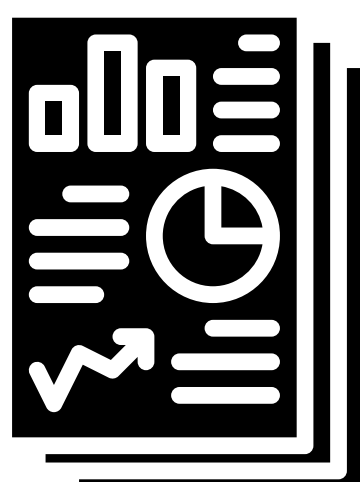

A field study was conducted to Jatinga Amur Falcon by the students of B. Sc 5th Semester, Department of Zoology, Gargaon College, as part of their syllabus on 16th November, 2021. A total of 28 number of students along with the teacher in-charge Dr. Rashmi Dutta and Pimily Langthasa went to the trip. The trip was carried out to explore the flora and fauna of the natural ecosystem and the existing interrelationship among them. The field visit enriched the students with adequate knowledge on the natural ecosystems and the diversity existing therein.

Rationality of the program

The outreach programs helped the students to understand the animals and their behaviour in their natural habitats. Additionally, the field study provides a general overview of the existing biodiversity of Jatinga, Umrangsu Ethnic Village Amur Falcon, current threats and our contribution for its sustenance.
